

I didn't do very much in terms of design documents, but I did draw these two up early on.

I made this in Access when I was thinking about how I was going to lay out my database:

I sketched this up in class when I was thinking about how I was going to lay out my Navbar:

I'm sorry there isn't more content here, and that what I do have is of such low quality. I normally visualize ideas in my mind, and work off of that mental image. I don't usually find diagrams to be very helpful, so I normally try to avoid them.